授業の目的・概要 Objectives and Outline of the Course
日
英	This course will enable 2nd. Year Information Science Students to develop their knowledge, critical thinking, English language abilities and communication skills in the important and inter-related areas of Information Science, Global Issues and Sociocultural studies, through interactive work based on the required textbook: "Humanity and Technology" (3rd Edition, 2020, Intercom Press), by Brian Cullen, and also through independently researched on-going research journals linked to themes in Information Science and also to complimentary themes in the core textbook. Students will be involved in weekly pair-work and small group discussions, mini-presentations and debates - based on the textbook tasks and inter-related and independently researched research journals. (Notebooks and journals will be collected and assessed periodically during the semester.) The course will be continuously assessed and there will be no final exams.
